RACE APPRAISAL

The fourth at Santa Anita shapes up clearly in favor of early speed, with frontrunner Square Cat likely to seize immediate control. Given Santa Anita's dirt sprints typically favor horses who can secure forward positions early, Square Cat's quick gate speed makes him ideally suited to dictate a moderate pace. The field behind him, consisting largely of midpack runners and closers, such as Clever Clover, Grazen Sun, and Nauvoo, may find themselves at a disadvantage unless they adapt and move earlier than usual. Class considerations spotlight Square Cat and Clever Clover, both dropping down notably from tougher competition, which could significantly enhance their performances today. Both have repeatedly faced stronger foes recently, giving them a clear class edge in this matchup. Wegonahavagoodtime consistently runs well at this level, providing a stable form line and posing a genuine threat based on class and consistency. Performance figures distinctly favor Square Cat, whose FIRE ratings and CPR indicate clear superiority at today's conditions, emphasizing his strong potential to lead gate-to-wire. Wegonahavagoodtime has competitive figures, though he may need the frontrunner to weaken slightly to capitalize fully. The final verdict strongly favors Square Cat, whose pace-setting ability, substantial class drop, and strong figures make him clearly the horse to beat as the HF 15a.

CLOSERS: Fastest in the stretch in recent races at or near this distance have been: Wegonahavagoodtime :25.2 - Erebus :25.8 - Square Cat :26.3

HORSE COMMENTS

Erebus Typically a midpack runner, not ideally suited to this speed-favoring scenario. Lopez's recent form is notably cold, with no recent winners. Tough to endorse strongly, likely to watch this one cautiously.

Grazen Sun From Morfin's capable barn (20%), this gelding typically positions midpack and tries to close moderately late. His form at Santa Anita raises questions against this competition, and without standout recent workouts, he might find today's class challenging.

Clever Clover Represents Miyadi's hot barn (26.7%), dropping notably in class today. Although primarily running from midpack, he's demonstrated competitiveness against tougher fields recently, suggesting significant upside here. Recent form suggests he's a solid threat if Square Cat falters.

Nauvoo Usually settles back and tries to close, a style clearly disadvantaged by today's likely pace scenario. Knapp maintains decent form (20%), but Nauvoo's recent performances and workouts do little to inspire confidence at this sprint distance, making him difficult to back enthusiastically.

Upstart Yankee Faces distance questions, having not raced recently at this sprint distance. McLean's recent cold streak provides little encouragement, and his recent form further dampens expectations today. Hard to support strongly.

Wegonahavagoodtime Consistent at this level, usually making a late run. Vallejo's recent barn form is fair, and this gelding's reliable recent races suggest he's a strong contender for minor honors or better if pace favors his late style.

Square Cat Clear frontrunner with a significant class drop, ideally suited to today's race shape. Wright's impressive dirt sprint stats (24%) underline his appeal. Despite moderate recent works, his race-day figures are superior, clearly positioning him as the standout.
